THE CONDOR, (Bulletin of the Cooper Ornithological Club.)

(A Bi-Monthly Illustrated Magazine of Pacific Coast Ornithology.)

Edited by CHESTER BARLOW, associated with HENRY REED
TAYLOR and HOWARD ROBERTSON.

Subscription: $1 per year.

THE CONDOR enters upon its second volume with the ability to promise the publication of one of the newsiest and most valuable bird volumes for 1900. Added to a successful initial year are numerous points of improvement which subscribers will appreciate. A number of new bird descriptions will be found in Volume II.

The January, 1900, issue consists of 24 pages and ten portraits of Californian workers, including the first published portrait of Mr. Lyman Belding, together with his personally written narrative: "A Part of My Experience in Collecting." Also a noteworthy article on "The varied Thrush in Summer" (describing its nesting) by Jos. Grinnell. The issue is replete with fresh articles from field workers, together with the usual general notes and shorter papers.

THE CONDOR is issued promptly on the 15th of each alternate month. $1 per year; sample copy, 20 cents.

For sample copy address C. BARLOW, Editor, Santa Clara, Cal. Subscriptions should be sent to DONALD A. COHEN, Alameda, Cal.

Volume I complete can be supplied at $1, while it lasts.

Bird Studies with a Camera.

With introductory Chapters on the Outfit and Methods of the Bird Photographer. By FRANK M. CHAPMAN, Assistant Curator of Vertebrate Zoölogy in the American Museum of Natural History; author of "Handbook of Birds of Eastern North America" and "Bird Life." Illustrated with over 100 photographs from nature by the author. 12mo, cloth. (Ready early in April.)

Bird students and photographers will find that this book possesses for them a unique interest and value. It is practical as well as descriptive, and in the opening chapters the questions of camera, lens, plates, blinds, decoys, and other pertinent matters are fully discussed, making the work an admirable guide for the camera hunter, who can not but be stimulated by its author's enthusiasm and convincing demonstration of the methods he recommends.
